

Conservation Incentives and Food Security

Evidence from the Burkina Faso Forest Investment Program (FIP)

Note: The graph shows that participants in the PES scheme are 14 pct. points less likely to be food insecure compared to non participants. This suggests that, if well-planned, agri environmental schemes in developing countries have the potential to deliver both in terms of food security and ecosystem services, especially amongst vulnerable communities in the drylands of SSA.